DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-10, drawn to a 38-residue CRFR1 ligand, classified in class 530, subclass 300+.

The claims recite peptides that read on a plethora of peptide sequences, which are not related in structure, and therefore the claims are considered to comprise an improper Markush group. The claims are not proper linking claims because in fact, the claims comprise multitudes of sequences.

Applicant must choose a single sequence for examination. This is not a species election, but an election of a single invention.

If applicant believes that their sequences are so overlapping as to be obvious variants of each other, then the Applicant may choose a single sequence for search, this sequence being representative of all sequences or a designated subset of the sequences. If applicant presents a single sequence to represent all sequences claimed, it will be understood that if this sequence is found in the prior art, the remaining sequences will be considered to be obvious variants of the found sequence.

2. This application contains sequence disclosures that are encompassed by the definitions for nucleotide and/or amino acid sequences set forth in 37 CFR 1.821(a)1 and (a)2. However, the application fails to comply with the requirements of 37 CFR 1.821 through 1.825 for the following reasons:

The sequence listing and CRF have not been processed for this application. Further, the claims contain sequences with no identifiable SEQ ID NO.'s. SEQ ID NO.'s need to be inserted after all amino acid sequences subject to the sequence disclosure rules. See 37 CFR 1.821(d).

3. Inventions are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP 802.01) In the instant case, the different inventions have different structural sequences of amino acid residues.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and the inventions require a different field of search (MPEP 808.02), restriction for examination purposes is proper. Furthermore, searching the inventions of the Group of polypeptides would impose a serious search burden as the sequences are not coextensive with regards to the non-patent literature. This search also requires an extensive analysis of the art retrieved in a sequence search and will require an in-depth analysis of the technical literature.

4. Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include (i) an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and (ii) a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species.

MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence not of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 USC 103(a) of the other invention.

5. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
